FICTION

EXPLANATORY.—For convenience of reference, novels have been placed in four general groups, as follows:—American, English, Foreign, and Fiction for Young Folks.

Any plan of classifying novels according to their construction or purpose, must be somewhat arbitrary, inasmuch as a novel which is predominantly of one sort, usually partakes also of the character of others. For example, an Historical novel may be also a novel of Life and Society; another may at the same time be a purely imaginative Romance, a tale of Adventure and a Humorous novel. All that has been attempted is to indicate the prevailing character of a work, as a help to the reader in selection. The classification is indicated in brackets following the title, by abbreviations, as follows:

[Adv.]	Tales of Adventure.	[Rom.]	Romances.
[Hist.]	Historical Novels.	[Sea.]	Sea Tales.
[Hum.]	Humorous Novels.	[Soc.]	Novels of Life and Society.
[Rel.]	Religious Novels.	[War.]	War Tales.

KATHERINE LA

THE RALSTONE.

This differs from other novels of the author in that its scenes and incidents throughout are American. Mr. Crawford is an American by birth; otherwise he is the most cosmopolitan of men.

On the appearance of Mr. ISAACS, the author sprang instantly into a popularity that still continues unabated. It is a romance of India, with a flavor of hunting and out-door life and permeated with Indian supernaturalism.

Love and music together form the theme.

Together with SANT' ILARIO and DON CASINO this is the author's best sustained work. These form a connected group of novels of modern life in Rome. The leading character of the series, Corona, is a singularly pure and noble woman.

F. MARION CRAWFORD.

HARRIET BEECHER STOWE.

The greatest of all novels written with a purpose, judged by its world-wide audience. Although the "domestic institution," which it attacked has been forever done away, the book is still as widely read as ever.

Miss Austen's first story, PRIDE AND PREJUDICE, was written in 1796. All are quiet in manner, with only the mildest story-interest; but the author's acuteness in character-study, her gentle but keen satire at society's follies, and her pervading though never boisterous humor, have made her literary reputation grow with the lapse of time. Her novels mark the transition from the old, unnatural and romantic school—UDOLPHO and the like.

A PRINCESS OF THULE still remains Black's most vigorous novel. STRANGE ADVENTURES OF A PHANTOM was the author's first great hit. It is neither a novel nor a record of travel, but betwixt and between. In the story entitled GREEN PASTURES AND PICCADILLY, some of the characters in "Strange Adventures of a Phantom" are taken to the United States. SUNRISE contrasts the plots of Italian revolutionists with sturdy, open English character.

The typical novels of this prolific writer are the following:

A STRANGE STORY is a cleverly constructed romance of the mysterious and the supernatural. MY NOVEL, OR, VARIETIES IN ENGLISH LIFE, is keen in thought and rich in character, though often discursive and sometimes affected in style. THE CANTONS and WHAT WILL HE DO WITH IT? are in the same vein. THE LAST DAYS OF POMPEII reproduces Roman life, public and private, at the time of the great eruption of Vesuvius. RIENZI, THE LAST OF THE ROMAN TRIBUNES, describes the heroic attempt of Rienzi to revive a Roman republic in the 14th century. THE PILGRIMS OF THE RHINE, one of the author's early romances, is full of graceful fancies and subtle thought.

All of Dickens's novels picture contemporary life and social customs, except the two historical romances, BARNABY RUDGE and A TALE OF TWO CITIES, and the PICKWICK PAPERS, which are unique in their extravagant drollery.

*BARNABY RUDGE [Hist.]

Deals with the Lord George Gordon "No Popery" riots of 1790.

*DAVID COPPERFIELD.

In some measure autobiographical. The general verdict makes this Dickens's greatest novel.

*MARTIN CHUZZLEWIT.

Written after Dickens's first visit to America, extravagant in its burlesque of American crudities; otherwise one of Dickens's best novels.

*OLD CURIOSITY SHOP.

The story of "Little Nell" has moved thousands to tears.

*NICHOLAS NICKLEBY.

Effected a great improvement in the internal management of English boarding-schools for boys.

*OLIVER TWIST.

"Fagin," the Jew teacher of thieves, and "Bumble" the parish beadle are types used by Dickens to sharpen his attack on social abuses.

CHARLES DICKENS.

Dickens, Charles—*PICKWICK PAPERS.

"Sam Weller" and "Mr. Pickwick" are as laughter-provoking now as when Dickens made his first great hit with the PICKWICK PAPERS, published in installments.

*TALE OF TWO CITIES.

A tale of Scotland and France in the time of the French Revolution.

Du Maurier, George—*PETER IBBETSON [Rom.] Illus. 8 vo. (Harper).

$1.50 1.15

Unique among imaginative romances. A dream world is made real and tangible. Fascinating to readers who know how to give free play to the imagination.

TRILBY. Illustrated by the Author. 8 vo. (Harper). $1.75 . . 1.35

Undoubtedly the most widely read novel of 1894. The graphic pictures of artist life in Paris provoke curiosity and shock moral sensibility. The story turns on an extravagantly imagined case of hypnotism.

Each volume contains a single novel, with three exceptions, and separate glossary and index, the author's full notes and introduction, and additional notes by David Laing. His greatest and most popular stories are noted below:—

THE ANTIQUARY [Soc.]

Full of dry humor; the excess of Scotch dialect makes the story less pleasing to some.

THE BRIDE OF LAMMERMOOR [Rom.]

A romantic love story with tragical ending; having more sentiment and less humor than is usual with Scott.

THE FORTUNES OF NIGEL [Hist.]

Old London in the time of James I. is vividly reproduced.

THE HEART OF MIDLOTHIAN [Soc.]

Divides with IVANHOE and KENILWORTH the honor of being Scott's most popular novel; the character of "Jeanie Deans" is unsurpassed in fiction for honest, homely pathos.

IVANHOE [Hist.]

A tale of England under Richard I., in which appear Normans and Saxons, Jew usurers and Robin Hood's outlaws. The most popular of Scott's novels next to KENILWORTH.

KENILWORTH [Hist.]

Tragic story of "Amy Robsart" and of Elizabeth's court. The popular verdict makes this Scott's greatest novel.

LEGEND OF MONTROSE [Hist.]

"Captain Dalgetty," the soldier of fortune, is one of Scott's best drawn characters. The story is tragical.

THE MONASTERY [Hist.]

This and its sequel, THE ABBOT, are laid in the time of Queen Mary of Scots, who appears as a principal character in the latter.

OLD MORTALITY [Hist.]

An exciting and "ever true" tale of the fierce wars of the Scotch Covenanters.

Scott, Sir Walter—THE PIRATE [Sea].

The only tale by Scott which dwells much on the sea.

QUENTIN DURWARD [Hist.]

The time is the reign of Louis XI. of France. It is among the best of Scott's novels for varied character and incident.

ROB ROY [Soc.]

The character of "Rob Roy" is only partly historical; one of Scott's most spirited stories.

THE TALISMAN [Hist.]

A tale of the Crusades. Similar in style to IVANHOE, but less masterly.

WAVERLEY [Hist.]

Originally published anonymously, as were the succeeding novels of Scott, hence called the "Waverley" novels. Its action is in the time of the Pretender.

WOODSTOCK [Hist.]

Cromwell and Charles II. are among the characters.

Sheppard, Elizabeth—CHARLES AUCHESTER [Soc.] 2 vols. 8 vo.

 In the time of Queen Anna; the Young Pretender is one of the characters. The art of the book is superb. One of the finest historical novels in existence.
- *THE HISTORY OF PENDENNIS [Soc.]
 Discursive, but pervaded by a deep knowledge of human nature; often wrongly called cynical.

THE NEWCOMES is among the half dozen greatest novels in English literature. The noble character of Colonel Newcome shows Thackeray at his very best.
- THE VIRGINIANS [Hist.]
 Glimpses of America and England in the eighteenth century. Washington, Dr. Johnson, Richardson, the novelist, Fielding, and other famous people appear. Some of the characters are related to those of HENRY ESMOND.
- *VANITY FAIR [Soc.]
 The keenest of satires on social falsities. The immortal "Becky Sharp" gives life to the book. Many think it Thackeray's greatest novel.

ALEXANDER DUMAS.

HISTORICAL AND REGENCY ROMANCES.

The eight volumes numbered 1, 2, 9, 10 and 11 above, treat of historical events and characters in the time of Henry II. and the regency of Philippe d'Orleans.

VALOIS ROMANCES.

The six volumes numbered 3, 4, 5 above, deal with events from the massacre of St. Bartholomew to the reign of Henry IV. The VALOIS and D'ARTAGNAN romances, with MONTE CHRISTO, are the best work of Dumas. Charles Chicot, the jester, is among the most amusing characters in all fiction.

D'ARTAGNAN ROMANCES.

The volumes numbered 6, 7, 8 above, deal with the reigns of Louis XIII. and Louis XIV. and the regency of Anne of Austria. Athos, Porthos, Aramis and D'Artagnan are keen-witted, dashing soldiers of an adventurous age. The contest between them and the great Richelieu is splendidly sustained. Of D'Artagnan, Mr. Robert Louis Stevenson remarks, "I do not say there is no character as well drawn in Shakespeare; I do say there is none that I like so wholly."

Dumas, Alexander—MARIE ANTOINETTE ROMANCES.

The twelve volumes numbered 13, 14, 15, 16, 17 above, deal with the periods of Louis XV., Louis XVI and the French Revolution. Among the characters are Richelieu, Mirabeau, Danton, Marat, Lafayette, Mme du Barry, the Princess Elizabeth, etc.

NAPOLÉON ROMANCES.

The six volumes numbered 18, 19, 20 above, deal with the time of the First Empire, and the reign of Louis Philippe.
